IBN – Index Bio-Bibliographicus Notorum Hominum

The bio-bibliographical reference book IBN appears as a print edition since 1978. By the end of 2017 there will be completed 197 of about 300 volumes.

For historians, genealogists and other scientists, the cross-cultural file is a valuable scientific source of bio-bibliographical information on personalities of all countries and times. After completion of the work, information on more than three million people will be available.

IBN offers the most important biographical information on each individual personality, name variants and pseudonyms, and refers to the sources in approx. 3000 evaluated sources (national biographies, collection biographies, regional biographies, etc.).

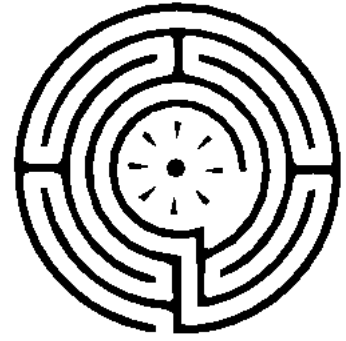

The short biographies are written in different languages depending on the nationality of the person in question (German, English, French, Spanish, Portuguese, Italian, Latin).

IBN Index Online (web-based version)

In addition to the print edition, IBN - Index Bio-Bibliographicus Notorum Hominum is also available as an online version since October 2016. The online version allows a more up-to-date way of working. The contents of the database are regularly updated. Since treated persons are constantly supplemented by new sources, the search results can be more precise than in the print version (the research in supplementary volumes is omitted).

The online version offers considerable advantages over the still available print version:

- Multi-User Accounts
- Access via IP-Address, IP-Range, DNS or Username/Password
- Independence from operating systems
- No installation necessary
- Access everywhere
- Comfortable search functions
- Significantly larger than the print version
- Printable search results
- Multilingual GUI (Graphic User Interface)
- Updates are immediately available with each new printed volume
- Continuous improvement of existing content
- Continuous development of all functionalities
- No shipping costs
